RunKita Application for Malaysian Runner Community

RunKita began with a simple belief. Running should feel welcoming, supportive, and enjoyable for everyone. Through this project, I explored how thoughtful UI/UX design can connect Malaysian runners, especially beginners, by making it easier to discover communities, join local events, and stay motivated together. I chose this topic because many people hesitate to start running alone or feel intimidated by experienced runners.

My hope is that RunKita inspires more people to take their first step, build meaningful friendships, and create a healthier, stronger, and more connected running community across Malaysia. See you at my FYP exhibition! Come experience it yourself.
