Penang commonly referred to as the Pearl of the Orient, is one of Asia’s famous islands. Besides that it is an international tourist destination famous for its many attractions which are steeped in history as well as for its scenic beauty with white sandy beaches, beautiful landscape and its unique and diverse cultures and food. In line with the tourism bodies or states government effort in promoting ‘The Visit Penang Year 2010 to 2012’ a well diverse blend of programs and activities were conducted and one of it is Penang Food Fair. As mentioned above there have are variety of different food to enjoy every day at Penang sites. Penang’s cultural diversity is reflected par excellence in its cuisine which is a mixture of Malay, Chinese, Indian, Siamese and European. Due to that, Penang is highlighted as the one of states for gastronomy routes to Malaysia. Relates to above statements, this state is well known for food lovers, which is full of local delicacy and cuisine which tourists’ come to Penang to taste the island’s unique cuisine. As a result, this has made Penang to be given the title of food capital of Malaysia.

The study focuses on examining quality, perceived value and satisfaction of Penang delicacies in predicting tourists’ revisit intention. The study utilized the self-administered questionnaire technique which international tourist’s who visited or having their vacation trips in the city of Penang from the various parts of the world was a respondents. Data was successfully gathered from a sample of three hundred twenty eight (328) respondents, yielding almost 82% response rate. The data were analyzed using inferential statistics such as, reliability test and multiple regressions to confirm proposed hypothesis, simultaneously answering the posited research questions.

In order to test the significant of the study, the mediation test on tourists’ satisfaction mediates the relationships between quality, perceived value and revisit intention was conducted. The findings of this study revealed that tourists’ satisfaction have positive relationship between quality, perceived value, and tourists’ satisfaction. It is therefore suffice to say that the findings of this study enables greater comprehension on examining quality, perceived value and satisfaction of Penang delicacies in predicting tourists’ revisit intention and give positive impact on tourism industry in order for targeting international tourists’ arrival in Penang.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First and foremost, thank to Allah S.W.T for giving me the strength, blessings and persistent to complete this dissertation as planned. This dissertation would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in a way or another contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this study. Without the support of those who have offered me continual words of encouragements as well as mental and spiritual guidance, my thesis would have never come to a full completion. I would like to acknowledge these individuals and their kind contributions.

I wish to express my deepest gratitude and sincere appreciation to my main supervisor, Associate Professor Dr. Artinah Zainal, for her absolute patience, invaluable advice, dedication, and words of encouragement throughout my master study. Without her, this dissertation would not have been possible. It was a great privilege to work under her supervision and professionalism which guided me to stay focused on my genuine thoughts and completing this undertaking.

Special thanks to my colleagues and friends at Universiti Teknologi MARA who save me a helping hand and support. I am grateful for their friendship and cherish all the good memories. Deepest thanks to my friends in SEGi College Penang for their continued encouragement. Their kindness and generosity have been heart-warming.

A note of thanks goes to the Tour Guide and Tour Operators from Penang for their valuable support during data collection and additional thanks are extended to all respondents who have given their full cooperation in completing this survey.

My heartfelt gratitude thanks go to my beloved parents and family for their understanding and unconditional love. They are always there for me and they always stand by my side. They have gone through with me all the challenges throughout the years. Without their patience, support, and love, I would not have been able to complete my master study as plan.

Thank you very much
