Social commentary is an alternative method to convey messages to the public with the hope to change their perceptions and attitudes toward certain social issues of ethical, political, moral and even religious. There have been various methods that have been used either in the form of electronic or printed medium. One of the methods has been the photographic images which have been used by the photography artists to convey their messages. This is called as the social commentary. In the advanced countries, social commentary images have long been accepted by the public and has become one of the most powerful medium of communication to alert or trigger the society toward change. In some developing countries as such in Malaysia, the acceptance of social commentary photography among the public is still arguable about the usage of photographic images as a medium of communication which has not been fully accepted and understood by the public. Most of the public has not been aware of what have been posted by the photography artists. Therefore, the photography artworks on social commentary which have been produced by these photography artists in Malaysia have just become an ordinary exhibited materials that do not carry any message or impact to the public. As a consequence, there is a communication gap between the artists and the public in the form of delivering, acceptance and understanding some of the issues which need to be addressed and highlighted through social commentary photography. This study therefore, focuses to investigate the social commentary photography artists and to what extend their messages in the artworks have been understood by the society in understanding the role and function of a logo in our daily lives.

Logo is an important part of branding aspect especially in creating an identity for the brand. The definition of a logo actually is virtually limitless and cannot be restrict in today’s globalized and borderless world. The reason is the growth and evolution of logo design has made a logo being valued not only from the definition aspect, but going further as a medium for communication and conveying messages (Armstrong, 2009). Nevertheless, in theory, a logo must at least easy to be remembered and recognize, as mentioned by Klerkx & Meurs (2006) that a logo design must emphasize on the elements that are easily remembered by the audience and thus, the brand represented by the logo is more well-known than competitors. Once a brand is known, the products will have more sales potential. This, according to Haig & Harper (1997) depends on the role and function of a logo design, which is to be easily remembered. From the basic principle of a logo design that is to make it easy to be remembered, several important questions arises through a research process. The most important question is what is the most significant factor that makes a logo easy to be remembered. As the result, this research focused on design characters exist in a logo design which involve shape, line, colour, typography, and image in finding the most significant factor in making a logo easy to be remembered. From the five design characters, typography makes a logo easy to be remembered. As the result, this research focused on design characters exist in a logo design which involve shape, line, colour, typography, and image in finding the most significant factor in making a logo easy to be remembered.

This study involves a fully qualitative method by interviewing the Malaysian photography artists to probe details with purposes and intention of why they produce their photographic works to be delivered to the public. The observations in various galleries, exhibitions and analyzing the artists’ photography artworks have also been employed. Finally, it is hoped that this study would benefit various levels of people such as artists, different societies, personnel in government and public sectors to provide great impact and awareness to them as photographic images have become one of the most powerful medium in conveying and delivering various messages to public in this digital era.
