ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful

First and foremost, my ultimate praise is to Allah, the Almighty, on whom ultimately we depend for sustenance and guidance. Second, I would like to express my sincere appreciation and full respect to my supervisor, Associate Professor Hjh. Nakiah binti Md. Amin for providing me the opportunity to work with him. His support, guidance, assistance and constructive comments during my completion of this thesis are highly grateful.

I am also deeply indebted to Associate Professor Syed Mohd Hassan Syed Subli, my Head of Department who always encourages me to work hard and whose ideas always prove to be a milestone for my success. To all my lecturers especially Associate Professor Hjh Salehaton Hussein Sazally who never giving up to teach and guide me during my time in UiTM Shah Alam, million thanks to all of you. With a sincere heart, I want to give credit to Professor A.Ghaffar bin Ahmad and Dr Norlizaiha binti Harun who has spent time and gave a very good cooperation during the interview provides insight and expertise.

Not to forget, my beloved wife Maziana Abu Bakar who has the confidence on me to overcome all the obstacles in my journey to success and for her continuous support during my study. I also extremely grateful to my parents, Haji Eshak bin Ahmad and Ramlah binti Amir who raised me up, loved me and taught me what life is all about. Their prayers have been always with me in achieving my dream.

I would also like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all my classmate AP777 Master Science in Heritage and Conservation Management who always be with me, giving strength and motivation to me in struggling for the completion of this thesis. Thank you very much.

ABSTRACT

Institute of Higher Education is one proof that the education system has expanded over the years. This development starts from a school, college, institution up to a university. This development process began when the British government to provide education to the local community at that time. Planning the development of higher education institutions are also experiencing the process and influenced by elements of the British cuisine. The development of colonial schools in Malaysia which was built during British rule have been documented by many writers, historians and academics. However, the documentation of buildings colonial in higher education is less emphasized. There is no guarantee for the uniqueness and authenticity of the colonial buildings at higher education institutions will be preserved.

At this time, the colonial structure in higher education is still used as places of learning and teaching. However, maintenance and management of historic buildings is still at a low level of awareness. Lack of awareness has caused the improvements to continue the colonial buildings have no control and guidelines, especially the colonial building that has not been enacted. Colonial Building in Institutions of Higher Learning which has been gazetted as a national heritage building must comply with the National Heritage Act.

This study will identify problems in the use of colonial buildings Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris (UPSI), and suggests some guidelines and references for the conservation of colonial buildings which are not gazetted as a national heritage building in the program. Policies and Guidelines to be provided is general and specifically on an analysis of the buildings that have been conducted on UPSI campus. This analysis is not only based on the design and use, but affect the technical aspects, policies and guidelines, with reference to the National Heritage Act and other references. Also conducted interviews with the conservator to seek views on the study. Policy and guidelines will become the future reference for other institutions of higher learning.
