ABSTRACT

This research is conducted on our effort to investigate the law and regulatory body relating to pharmaceutical products, specifically on adulteration of slimming pills in Malaysia. The topic was chosen because we think that the enforcement of law existing now is still insufficient to control the scenario of adulterated slimming pills by irresponsible manufacturers. This is because since there are many previous cases where consumers have suffered injuries due to the consumption of dangerous slimming pills which have been adulterated. Therefore, the insufficiency of the law must be taken into account whether it can be enforced by having more appropriate alternatives. We believe that the government possesses the kinds of power in order to take actions to cope with the problems. Due to this, we also deem it proper and wise, in understanding this study, to present our findings from the research that we have conducted on this issue, whether this result could be an alternative to help the government to cope with adulteration matters. From the analysis made on the findings, we have suggested some recommendations.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, we graciously thank Almighty Allah S.W.T for blessing and perseverance in our endeavour to undertake this challenging assignment. Likewise, we wish to express our utmost gratitude to our research supervisor, Prof. Madya Thalmalingam M. Suppiah, who helped us in no small ways from the beginning to the completion of this task. We are indeed humbled by his understanding and patience.

We also owe a debt of gratitude to our respective parents. They stood by us and provided us with the necessary moral and financial support throughout. They are really noble and our deepest appreciation and thanks goes to them.

Our friends and colleagues also deserve a special mention. They had remained patient and cheerful even when we were working under constant pressure.

Last but not least, our credit goes to all others who have, in one way or the other, given us invaluable help, assistance and advice. We are grateful to them all.
