ABSTRACT

The issues of apostasy are quiet common to be found in the writings of Islamic and Civil law scholars through articles in journals, in printed books, and commonly discussed and presented in seminars. But this is not the situation in the case of conversion. In the above highlight, the research attempts to discuss the implications of conversion within the legal perspectives, in the area of marriage, child custody and inheritance. In doing so, both the Syariah and Civil Courts jurisdiction in the respected area shall be highlighted and noted.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

First of all we would like to thank the merciful God for all His blessings, as without it we won't be able to finish the research in time.

To our family, for without their love and support, we won't be able to be where we are today and without them, we won't be who we are today. Thank you for the patience to bear with us, and accepting us the way we are. You are the best and we love you.

To our respected supervisor, Associate Professor Dr. Md. Amin Hj. Abdul Rahman, it is an honor to be under his supervision and guidance this semester and it is our pleasure for having him as our supervisor. We would like to take this opportunity to thank him for the knowledge he have kindly shared with us. It is mostly appreciated and treasured.

To all the lecturers of Law Faculty of UiTM and some other individuals out there who had been very kind to share their knowledge and thought with us, we thank you far all your co-operation and contribution.

To all dear friends, and those we didn't mention, who has been directly and indirectly involved in making this research possible, thank you so much.

There's nothing more than we can say, except for our gratitude and appreciation for what you've done.

Last but not least, once again thank you.
