ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In The Name Of ALLAH The Most Merciful and The Most Forgiving

First and foremost, we would like to say Alhamdulillah, to our greatest God, ALLAH, that with His blessings, we were given good health till the day we finish this project paper. Not forgetting to our beloved parents and family who has never stop giving us encouragement and support as they know this paper needs to be done with full integrity and needs a lot of attention. Thank you for the tremendous supports that we have now finished with this paper.

Next, we would love to convey our deepest and greatest appreciation to our supervisor, Madam Azlina Aziz. She is our supervisor for this project paper and has helped u a lot in doing research. Special thanks to Madam Azlina also as she has already given us various ways to find sources and do efficient research. Even though we encountered a lot of difficulties while preparing the paper, but, Madam Azlina has helped us in getting information for the research and also recommended a few interviewees to be interviewed. She had explained to us on how to conduct the research on our said topic and she makes us understand on the topic clearly so that we can do the research in line with the procedures required. We feel very motivated and encouraged every time we had meetings with her since she will always help us and guide us for the research. Apart from being a law lecturer, we find that Puan Azlina Aziz is also a caring mother giving advices to her children. She not only reminded us of the subject of law, but also other matters that actually motivated us in various ways. Again, thank you Puan Azlina Aziz.

Last but not least, a special thanks to our own group members. Even though we faced a lot of difficulties in conducting the research, we always motivate each other to ensure the work is done smoothly. We usually assign works to each other and if there happens to be any difficulty, we will always refer to each other. Thank you to our group members for the time and also efforts. Thank you, again.

ABSTRACT

Due to the fact that the technology and communications have evolved over time from a good to better, most children nowadays are much more advanced compared to children in 10 years back. More gadgets have been invented and most of the technologies are much more friendly-user and also easy to be used. That is why, we can always see, most children of the age of 10, can use internet, sometimes, better than us adults. It is always agreed that the internet has affected not only adults and adolescents but also children. The effects comprise of negatives and also positives. It is in fact true that the existence of a few Acts in Malaysia, help to protect the children, but, we also realised on the sufficiency and adequacy of such protections that can actually protect this children. Acts like Penal Code, Federal Constitution, and Communications and Multimedia Act are among the acts that insert in some protection with regards to children. However, our scope focuses more to protection of children with regards to electronic media. This is again, due to the fact that electronic media has become among the fastest advancement in the world.

Therefore, our group has come out with a project paper that concerns on protection on children with regards to electronic media. We analyse on the issues pertaining to the adequacy of the acts stated above as to how far those have protected the children in our country. Besides that, we also compare to other four advanced countries like India, Singapore, United States of America and United Kingdom. We also conduct interviews to experts in order to gain more information and also to get their opinions on selected sub-topics.

Last but not least, we ended this project paper by listing a few recommendations and also conclusion on our topic which is protection on children with regards to electronic media.
