

THE DESIRABILITY AND THE SUITABILITY OF AN INDEPENDENT BODY TO OVERSEE THE CONDUCT OF POLICE IN MALAYSIA

By

Nabilla bt Rosli (2006106915)

Siti Nazirah bt Zohri (2006146227)

Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Bachelor in Legal Studies (Hons)

Universiti Teknologi MARA

Faculty of Law

April 2009

The students confirm that the work submitted is their own and that appropriate credit has been given where reference has been made to the work of others.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

All praise to Allah subhanahu Wa Ta'ala whose help and guidance has sustained us to bring this research project to completion.

This research project has been carried out by a team which has included Nabilla Bt Rosli and Siti Nazirah Bt Zohri. We have been assisted by many people who willingly offer guidance and assistance throughout the completion of this research project.

We wish to express our gratitude to Prof. Dr. Shad Saleem Faruqi for his guidance and patience in helping us for the preparation of this research. He has given us ample input which is useful for our research. He, without failure, attempts to assist us even when he has no much time as he has other bountiful commitments to fulfill.

We wish also to express deep appreciation to Mr. Mohd Bahrin Othman for his help in giving us additional input which is very useful for the preparation of the research. We give our special thanks to the law librarian who has given assistance and made possible for us to attain the relevant material and data.

We are grateful to our parents and close friends who are always there for us, giving support and never let us down whenever we need them. We also would like to record our appreciation to anyone who directly or indirectly contributed and made possible to the completion of this research project.

ABSTRACT

The police professionalization is essentially a police community transaction. Community attitudes towards the police are crucial, because professionalism implies public certification of professional competence, with commensurate status, privileges, and responsibilities. Public concerns regarding the image and the efficacy of the Royal Malaysia Police reached serious levels due to the public perceptions of the Royal Malaysia as one of the most corrupt of government agencies.

The nature of police work which involves wide ranging authority and discretionary power is extremely susceptible to corruption unless there is an effective system of supervision to hold police officers to account for breaches of rules and procedures. Upholding human rights needs to become a central pillar of policing, one of the key and essential criteria by which police actions are scrutinised and the foundation of the ethical code for policing.

The Federal Constitution provides The Police Force Commission the power to exercise disciplinary control over members of the police force. It is, however, clear that the commission have not done an adequate job to check abuses within the police force. A new, independent and external body is necessary to be established to assist and advise the Police Force Commission to perform its functions. It is a mechanism of transparency and accountability, as restoring integrity involve external watchdog.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgement	ii
Abstract	iii
Contents	iv

CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION

1.0	Introduction	1
1.1	A Brief history of the Royal Malaysia Police	2
	Police System during Malacca Sultanate	2
	The Straits Settlement	2
	Federated Malay States	3
	The Unfederated Malay States	4
	Sabah and Sarawak	4
1.2	Background	6
	Extensive Infringements of Human Rights	6
	Breakdown of Public Trust and Confidence	6
	Non-Implementation of Independent Police Complaints and Misconduct Commission	7
	Proposed Special Complaints Commission	7
	Most Forward Looking for External Mechanism	8
1.3	Research Questions	9
1.4	Objectives and Scope	9

1.5	Significance of the Research	10
1.6	Scope and Limitations of the Research	11
1.7	Research Methodology	12
1.8	Outline of the Structure of the Paper	13
1.9	Conclusion	15

CHAPTER TWO: THE EVOLUTION AND THE CONTROVERSIAL CHALLENGES TO TRANSFORM THE ROYAL MALAYSIA POLICE INTO A WORLD CLASS ORGANISATION

2.0	Introduction	16
2.1	Formation of the Royal Malaysia Police	16
	Malaysia Encountered Police Force less Accountable	17
	The Exercise of Power Must Not Suffer From Illegality, Irrationality and Procedural Impropriety	17
	Police Professionalism Implies from Community Attitudes Towards the Police	18
	Holding Omnipotence Power	19
	Misconduct	20
2.2	Compliance with Prescribed Laws and Human Rights Standard	23
	Upholding Human Rights	23