ABSTRACT

Industrial training is a key component of a student's education. Industrial training that is well-planned, well-executed, and well-evaluated can go a long way toward developing a professional attitude. It fosters an understanding of the industrial approach to problem solving, which is based on a thorough understanding of the organization's processes and modes of operation. The goal and motivation of this industrial training is to gain discipline, skills, teamwork, and technical knowledge in a proper training environment, which will aid me in developing a responsiveness to the self-disciplinary nature of problems in information and communication technology as a student in the field of information technology. Because the library profession is specialised and technical in nature, industrial training for library science students must include both theory and practical skills. With the recent debate over the relevance of libraries in the face of emerging web technologies, this is becoming increasingly relevant. The industrial training is based in part on the internship model, in which student receive one to five months of training.

1.0 Background of the Organization

University Malaya, or UM, Malaysia's oldest university, is situated on a 922-acre (373.12 hectare) campus in the southwest of Kuala Lumpur, the capital of Malaysia. It was founded on 28 September 1905 in Singapore as the King Edward VII College of Medicine and on 8th October 1949, it became the University of Malaya with the merger of the King Edward VII College of Medicine and Raffles College (founded in 1928). The University of Malaya derives its name from the term 'Malaya' as the country was then known.

The Carr-Saunders Commission on University Education in Malaya, which recommended the setting up of the university, noted in its Report in 1948: "The University of Malaya would provide for the first time a common centre where varieties of race, religion and economic interest could mingle in joint endeavour. For a University of Malaya must inevitably realise that it is a university for Malaya."

The growth of the University was very rapid during the first decade of its establishment and this resulted in the setting up of two autonomous Divisions on 15 January 1959, one located in Singapore and the other in Kuala Lumpur. In 1960, the government of the two territories indicated their desire to change the status of the Divisions into that of a national university. Legislation was passed in 1961 and the University of Malaya was established on 1st January 1962.

On June 16th 1962, University of Malaya celebrated the installation of its first Chancellor, Tunku Abdul Rahman Putra Al-Haj, who was also the country's first prime minister. The first Vice-Chancellor was Professor Oppenheim, a world-renowned Mathematician. Currently, His Royal Highness the Sultan of Perak Darul Ridzuan, Sultan Nazrin Muizzuddin Shah is the Chancellor of UM. YBhg. Dato' Prof. Ir. Dr. Mohd Hamdi Abd Shukor was appointed as the 13th Vice-Chancellor of UM on 1 November 2020.
