ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to thanks to ALLAH S.W.T., for giving me all this time with His grace for my health, my strength and my life. With the help and permission of ALLAH, I was given the chance to carry out this final year thesis.

At the same time, I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to my advisor, Dr. Nur Melissa Binti Mohammad Faisal Wee for her guidance, advice, valuable suggestion, encouragement and moral support throughout the completion of this project. I feel grateful to her for being so nice, patient and kind in dealing with questions and problems during this semester, and for giving me lots of information during providing the implementation of this research. Furthermore, I also would like to thank faculty of business management Universiti Teknologi Mara in giving me useful information and preparing all sorts of documents needed during my final semester. Without the help, I could not proceed with the work and research smoothly.

Lastly, it is my time to place on gratitude to my parents and friends. They have been very supportive and always be there in providing assistance. Apart from that, they always give me advice based on their logical thinking when I am facing frustration.

I also will strive to use the knowledge and skills that have been gained in the best way and continue to work for more improvement in the future.

ABSTRACT

The purpose of the research is to examine the factor that influencing the entrepreneurial intention among Generation Z in Malaysia. One of the aims of this study is to expose factors that can influence toward entrepreneurial intention. This study also was an attempt to observe the factors that influence the relationship between perceived education supports, perceived informal network, perceived formal network, and proactive personality toward entrepreneurial intention. The method that have been used in this study was a causal research or hypothesis testing in the experiment, and non-probability sampling was used and to be more precise, judgment sampling. Primary data was collected through questionnaires that have been distributed among undergraduates of Generation Z in Malaysia. The data has been collected and analyse among 190 respondents by using the Statistical Package for Social Science (SPSS). The analysis also included analysis of descriptive, reliability and regression. The analysis was done to achieve objectives of this study which are to identify the level of entrepreneurial intention, and to identify the significant relationship perceived education supports, perceived informal network, perceived formal network, and proactive personality toward entrepreneurial intention. Lastly, we hope that this this research would cover the gap in understanding the importance of entrepreneurial intention towards growing entrepreneurship and the business market.
