Three Food Science and Technology Students Win Best Presenter Award at the International Symposium on Food Science and Technology (InSoFoST 2021)

By: Khairunnisa binti Khairul Azam & Fadhilah binti Jailani, Faculty of Applied Sciences, UiTM Shah Alam

Three out of nine participants who are students from Bachelor of Science (Hons) Food Science and Technology (AS246), Faculty of Applied Sciences (FSG), UiTM Shah Alam have carved UiTM's name on the global academic map by winning the "Best Oral Presenter" and "Best Poster Presenter" at the International Symposium on Food Science and Technology (InSoFoST 2021) organised by Food Technology Students' Association (PERTEMA) in collaboration with 12 ASEAN International Mobility Students (AIMS) universities. The presentations were evaluated by a total of 15 invited judges from many countries, including Indonesia, Philippines and Thailand. Muhammad Shafiq Mustafa, one of the three participants, won first place and was crowned the "Best Oral Presenter" as he had performed impressive and outstanding work in his presentation entitled "Innovative processing, nutritional composition and health benefits of plant-based milk: a review". The remaining two were Ainatul Husna Abd Raoff and Zaiti Nadira Md Khalid who won the 3rd best oral presenter and 3rd best poster presenter, respectively.
