ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Assalamualaikum,

First of all, I would like to praise Allah S.W.T for His blessings and guidance for giving me courage in completing this study successfully.

Without the assistance and guidance from professional advisor Pn. Nur Afizah bt Muhamad Arifin with her comments and suggestion, I believed this study won't be accomplished. I would like to thank her for his patience, advices and guidance in helping me completing this study.

I also would like to express my gratitude and special credit the following individuals for their contributions in their time and effort in assisting me:

- Special appreciation to En. Mohd Sufian Ab Kadir for conveying precious knowledge and responded to all my questions during the completion of my study.
- Special thanks to Miss Lam Yok Sim, for her supervision, guidance and caress during my practical training
- To all the staffs of M K Land Holdings Berhad especially from Finance Department for their support and guidance

Lastly, thanks to all my friends who are always there to support and always concern about me.

Thank you.

ABSTRACT

The collapse of the house price bubble led to the financial crisis that started in 2007. The crisis attacks most of countries around the world and the banking system. Performance of firm in every sector are said to be affected by the crisis. The previous literature describes that the construction sector was the most affected one. This study was done to evaluate the performance of M K Land Holdings Berhad, claimed as one of the largest construction firm in Malaysia. The findings show there is a gap between the previous theories with the actual performance of the firm.
