Abstract

Zakat on income become an obligation towards Muslim all around the world. It also has been stated in Quranic legislation since long time ago. People who concern about zakat will feel it as an obligation to be fulfilled by all Muslims people and will ignore it if they feel otherwise. The collection of zakat on income increase year to year. It means the awareness of paying zakat on income increase simultaneously. By then, this research done in order to describe the acceptance of motivational factors that might be influence people to pay the zakat on income. This research was done in Kapar Energy Ventures (KEV) and the employees of KEV become as the respondents for this research paper. The methodology used the statistical data that were obtained from the documents such as reports and financial records of Lembaga Zakat Selangor. The findings stated that the independent variable of knowledge is not significant among the four variable listed. The rest of independent variable was significant relationship with the acceptance of motivational factors to pay zakat on income. Some recommendation will be provided to increase the level of awareness among Muslim people towards paying zakat on income.
