Away From Keyboard (AFK): Screen-time Control for Children

AFK is a screen time management app designed to help children build healthier digital habits. It allows parents and children to manage mobile device usage through schedules, reminders, activity tracking, notes, and emergency contact features. This project focuses on promoting a better lifestyle by reducing excessive screen use and encouraging children to become more aware of how they spend their time.

With a simple, friendly, and child-appropriate design, the app aims to guide children in developing discipline, responsibility, and healthier daily routines. At the same time, it also supports parents in monitoring and managing their child's device usage in a safe and organized way.
