ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First I would like to convey our high respect and thankful to Mr. Zulkifli Sapeciay for cooperation in completing my Final Project Report and having discussion while doing this task. For this opportunity I would like to thank people who has helped us a lot in giving information, guideline, explanation and provide us with a precious knowledge about my Final Project Report

I also would like to express my gratitude for informer which involves in the construction industry. With cooperation and effort I can complete this Final Project Report.

At last, I successfully finish this project on the time. Although, my performance in this report not good enough but I have try my best to make it possible. I hope from this project I will learn something and add more knowledge. Thanks again

ABSTRACT

In Malaysia, there are many construction method available practices. Most of the methods claim they are the best to be used.

However, some of the method fails to show that their method best in cost and quality. In this Final Project report, comparison will be done to various method of construction to find which is the most efficient and effective. The results that were obtained through these experiments showed that the proposed method solution is highly accurate.
