ABSTRACT

During the Asian financial crisis, the banking sector in Malaysia had suffered a bitter experience, due to that many researchers across the globe had attempted to better measure the bank performance. This study focus on the evaluation of bank performance for domestic banks in Malaysia by using Capital adequacy, Asset quality, Management Efficiency, and Liquidity for the period of 2008 until 2017. The regression analysis being use in this study, where the results for the study showed that only management efficiency and liquidity have a significant relationship with the performance of Malaysian banks. The outcome of this study could be used full to the policymaker in assessing bank performance that could determine the direction of the banking system in Malaysia in future.

Keywords: Financial Ratios, Bank Performance, Financial Management.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This research project would not be complete without the support of many people. I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone that had helped and guide me in completing my research project.

Firstly, I would like to thank to my supervisor of this project Madam Rohanizan Md Lazan for the guidance and advice. I would like to thank her for the willingness to inspire and motivate I in this project. I'm very grateful to her as my supervisor that always sacrificed her valuable time for helping me when I'm in need for the assistance.

I also would like to express my love to my families and friends for their understanding and supporting which has lead me in competing this research project. Without their help and understanding, I would face many difficulties while doing this project. Lastly, I would like to thank Universiti Teknologi Mara (UiTM) for offering this subject. It has given me an opportunity to participate and learn, as well as provide me more experience in conducting a research.
