Abstract

E-portfolio provides benefit to the lecturers and students for the purpose of teaching and learning. It is a highly personalized, customizable, web-based information management system, which allows lecturers and students to demonstrate individual and collaborative growth, achievement, and learning over time. An e-portfolio can be used in support of career planning and resume building, advising and academic planning, academic evaluation and assessment, and as a tool for reflection. This research attempts to use the e-portfolio as a lifelong learning tool to the potential learners and also to the institutions of higher learning. It is also an opportunity to improve the quality of education, providing students and lecturers with valuable information to design individualized challenging learning experiences. The main objective of the works is to determine the factors of ease of use, usefulness, attitude towards of using e-portfolio and behavioral that will positively or negatively affects the user's acceptance in using the e-portfolio.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my appreciation to my supervisor, Encik Fauzi Mohd Saman for his guidance and advices. He had shared a lot of valuable information, knowledge, and skills and sincerely helped me throughout the journey to complete this research. Your generous commitment will be always in my heart. Special thanks go to Dr. Joharry Othman, lecturer of Institute of Education, International Islamic University Malaysia for granting me his valuable time to explain and share his knowledge on e-portfolio. Special thanks also go to Puan Fauziah Ahmad for giving some advice to me in order to complete my research. I would like to thank to Assoc. Prof. Dr. Ahmad Marzuki Hj. Zainudin, a Director of Institute of Technology for allowing me to distribute my questionnaires to the lecturers and students of Institute of Education. I would also like to thank to my lovely mother, who is always there for me whenever I need her support. Last but not least, I would like to record my gratitude to all my friends especially my classmates and colleagues of Master of Science in Information Technology and also my ex-course mates of Secretarial Science (UiTM) and Computer Science (UTM) for the knowledge and memories we shared together. Good luck and all the best for our future undertakings.
