ABSTRACT

Shaping individuals' word of mouth is a particularly challenging issue, especially within the context of marketer-created online brand community. Although the topic has been extensively researched, limited studies have investigated word of mouth from the perspectives of relationship marketing. Thus, this study aims to examine the effect of perceived relationship value and relationship quality on word of mouth engagement in the marketer-created online brand community. Specific attention is given to hospitality brand online community listed in the Top 100 Facebook page in Malaysia. To achieve the stated purpose, a quantitative method was adopted using a web survey to collect data from active members of hospitality brand Facebook page in Malaysia. A total of 235 valid responses were received and further analyzed using Partial Least Square-Structural Equation Modeling. The findings confirmed that members' perceived relationship benefits of information, brand interaction, entertainment, and psychological empowerment all have a significant influence on relationship satisfaction. Subsequently, relationship satisfaction, commitment, and trust have a significant effect on online word of mouth, which in turn influences offline word of mouth. Interestingly, relationship satisfaction was also found to act as a full mediator in bridging the association between the dimensions of perceived relationship benefits and online word of mouth. Notably, this study provides several theoretical contributions in advancing word of mouth, consumer-brand relationship and relationship marketing literature. Methodologically, the use of state-of-the-art sampling design and mediation analysis led to better empirical findings. From a managerial perspective, this study offers essential guidelines for developing sound relationship marketing strategies in the marketer-created online brand community

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

"It is the journey, not the destination that matters. "

-T.S. Elliot

First and foremost, all praise to the merciful, passionate and almighty God for the successful completion of this thesis. It would not have been conceived without the guidance and support of several important individuals.

To begin with, I would like to express my deepest appreciation to my esteemed principal supervisor, Prof. Dr. Maznah Wan Omar, for her valuable guidance, encouragement, relentless patience and endless support throughout my entire PhD journey. Her sincerity, dedication and enthusiasm have deeply inspired me to fight and never give up on my study. My sincere gratitude also goes to my esteemed second supervisor, Prof. Dr. Rosmimah Mohd Roslin, for her insightful advice and suggestion during the productive discussion on this thesis work. Without these two individuals' constant guidance, help and support, this thesis would not have been possible.

Special thanks go to Defense Research Proposal Committee members, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nik Ramli Nik Abdul Rashid, Dr. Azlina Hanif, and Assoc. Dr. Jaafar Pyeman for their constructive comments and guidance towards the improvement of this thesis. Thank you to the Executive Officer (Academic) Faculty of Business Management, Mrs. Norlela Mohd Yasin, for helping beyond administrative support. Also, I would like to offer my sincere appreciation to my personal adviser Dr. Norfezah Md Nor, Dr. Azila Azmi, Mrs. Silverina Kibat for their kind words of encouragement. To all my beloved colleagues at Faculty of Hotel and Tourism Management: the PhD journey is meaningless without your warm friendship.

Last but not least, I am extremely grateful to my family for their unconditional love, prayers and sacrifices throughout my study. To my parent, Sarani Buntok and Ngelambong Meramat, this study would have been impossible without your all-out encouragement. My siblings, Peterson and Adeline, thank you for your tremendous support. Finally, my uncle Gasing Meramat for his financial assistance. All of them have been my pillars of strength during my difficult time.
