QUALITY

The term quality of service (QoS) refers to resources reservation control mechanism rather than the achieved service quality. Quality of service is the ability to provide different priority to different applications, users, or data flows, or to guarantee a certain level of performance to a data flow (Wikipedia, 2010).

According to the prevailing Japanese philosophy, quality is an elusive and indefinite construct. Often mistaken for inaccurate adjective like "goodness, or luxury, or shininess, or weight" (Crosby 1979), quality and its requirements are not easily expressed by consumers (Takeuchi and Quelch, 1983).

Quality is "zero defects doing it right the first time". (Garvin, 1983) measures quality by counting the incidence of "internal" failures, those observed before a product leaves the factory and "external" failures, those incurred in the field after a unit has been installed.

SERVICE QUALITY

Service quality are where we look under what customer satisfied of service that some organization given to them when using any services. Service quality to customer is important where in the decision making process. For example some for customer who want to have a memorable shopping experience and perception of service. What means for decision making, it is when the shop or organization given the service and what the customer receive from what they do, "according to Randall Bullard". If a good service provide to customer, this will make them loyal and will be contentious customer. If an organization fails to provide quality customer service, the loyalty customer will turnoff and maybe go to another organization. Where he or she feel comfortable and the service provide is of the highest quality.

Thus, quality service important aspect of any business's ability to remain a market force in an increasingly competitive and diverse marketplace. Good customer service is the primary factor in an organization's ability to sustain growth and
