CHEF WAN ON-LINE

ABSTRACT

This thesis, Chef Wan On-Line, is a website that is specially developed for our famous Chef, Chef Wan. Despite his name and recipes, there are still many people out there who need more information about his life and activities in general. This homepage will provide the information of Chef Wan, his activity and also the forum for his fans to communicate directly with him.

The main objective of this thesis is to provide information about Chef Wan to his fan. These homepage will be one stop center of gaining the information related to Chef Wan. So, his fans do not have to look all over places just to find information about Chef Wan. This is to make sure that information retrieval is easy. This homepage also provide user with the latest recipes and tips in cooking. At first place, people visiting this homepage would want to get the latest recipes from our famous chef. So, without paying additional money, his fans can get the latest recipes including the tips of cooking. Together, this homepage provides a platform for Chef Wan and his fans to communicate directly between them. With the forum room, his fans can compose the question and either Chef Wan himself will answer the question or other viewers will respond to the question.

The method used throughout developing Chef Wan On-Line is called "The Waterfall Model" approach. This method is very practical because the activities involved at each stage are well defined and must be agreed upon. In fact, if there are any mistake or modifications on the system, we can always repeat the previous stage.
