SEPTEMBER 2001

Wood finishing is a last process for product surfaces when we can add with some layers for purpose of protection and visual appearance. This status to get the high quality level in wood finishing, we must have correct equipments and associated accessories. Even though; for this century modern and high technology for wood finishing are available but the popular one that we have chosen brush and spray equipment. This is because of low cost, easy instructions and can maximize the use of finishing materials.
