

FAREWELL...

It is a bittersweet moment for me as I mark my last day after 13 years, since June 6th, 2011, at this incredible School of Information Science at UITM Sarawak. After much thought, I have decided to accept an opportunity that will take me to the same organization but a different branch. This transfer represents an exciting new chapter in my professional life, though leaving here is not easy.

I have had the privilege of working with a fantastic team of dedicated and talented individuals whom I truly adore. Each of you has left a unique imprint on me, and for that, I am deeply grateful. The friendships, the challenges we've overcome, and the projects we've celebrated will be cherished memories forever.

Throughout my time here, I have grown both professionally and personally. I have learned invaluable lessons about leadership, collaboration, and resilience. I owe a huge debt of gratitude to each of you, my colleagues, for the support, mentorship, and friendship we've shared. You have made my journey here one that I will always look back on with pride and joy. I am truly grateful to have had each of you as my colleagues, and I will remember you all forever.

While I'm excited about the new role that lies ahead, I'll miss our daily interactions, the problem-solving we did together, and the sense of community we've built. This isn't goodbye forever; it's just a change in scenery. I hope we'll stay connected and cross paths in the future.

I wish you all continued success and growth, both as individuals and as a team. The future is bright, and I believe that you will continue to thrive with the strength and talent you bring to our terrific faculty.

Thank you once again for the incredible experiences and memories. It has been an honor to be part of this team, and I will carry the lessons learned and the relationships built with me into my new journey.

Wishing you all the very best.

Warm regards,
Nurfaizah Kamarudin
