Preface

It is with great pleasure and pride that I present to you Voice of The Soul Volume III: A poetry compilation with the theme of Healing With Poetry. This volume is a testament to the power of words to heal, comfort, and transform. The 200 poems contained within these pages are diverse in theme and style, yet they are united by a common purpose which is to offer relief and insight during times of struggle and to celebrate the flexibility of the human spirit.

As the chief editor, I have had the honour of curating and refining these works, ensuring that each poem resonates with the theme of healing. This journey has been a deeply enriching experience, allowing me to witness the myriad ways in which poets can articulate pain, joy, hope, and recovery. Each contributor has poured their heart and soul into their verses, creating a tapestry of emotions and reflections that will undoubtedly touch every reader.

This compilation would not have been possible without the unwavering support and collaboration of many individuals. I extend my heartfelt gratitude to our dedicated team of editors, who meticulously reviewed each submission, and to the poets whose bravery and creativity have brought this project to life. Special thanks are also due to our publishing team for their hard work in bringing this volume to fruition.

Healing With Poetry is more than just a collection of poems; it is a journey through the human experience, offering a beacon of light for those navigating the darker times. It is my hope that these poems will provide you with the same comfort and inspiration that they have given me.

Thank you for joining us on this journey of healing and self-discovery.

Warm regards, Editor- in - Chief Sharina Sa'ad

FIVE MEN ONE QUEEN

By: Dr. Shafilla Subri

In a land of grace and gentle might, A woman stood with a heart so bright, With five men in her life, her pride, A husband true, sons by her side.

Her loving husband, steadfast and kind, A rock of strength, a noble mind, Together they nurtured dreams so high, Under the vast and open sky.

Four sons she raised with tender care, Instilled in them values are rare, To cherish faith, uphold their race, And honour their country with earnest grace.

The eldest son, wise and strong, With a heart that knows right from wrong, He leads with courage, firm and true, In everything he aims to do.

The second, with a spirit so bold, A warrior's heart, a soul of gold, He defends the weak, stands tall and proud, His actions speak, not his voice loud.

The third, thoughtful and serene, With dreams that in his eyes, He seeks the truth, a path so clear, With steadfast faith, he has no fear.

The youngest, full of life and light, With curiosity burning bright, He learns and grows with every day, Guided by his mother's way.

Their mother, a beacon, wise and fair, Her love and wisdom are always there, She taught them to be brave and just, To live their lives with faith and trust.

Their father, a man of great renown, A pillar so strong, a shining crown, Together they have built a home, Where love and harmony are sown.

For religion, they stand with pride, Their faith is a light, a constant guide, For race and heritage, they fight, To keep their culture burning bright.

For the country, they give their best, In every challenge, every quest, They strive to make their nation proud, To lift its name above the crowd.

In love and strength, they always stand, A beacon bright in their beloved land.
