

THE GOAL OF THIS CEREMONY

IT'S TIME TO TOAST YOUR SUCCESS 01

In order to get an education degree, you have to study until late at night and get up early. It could be hard, upsetting, and take a lot of time. Add up all the late nights you spent studying for a test or rushing to get to class on time. We know it was sometimes hard, but now is the time to look back and see how much it was worth. Convocation is the time to be proud of what you've done and give yourself a pat on the back.

02 GET-TOGETHER WITH YOUR STUDY PALS

At convocation, you can celebrate with the people who have helped you along the way. Even though it's a bad idea, your friends will soon move on to something else. You'll promise to stay in touch, but as you get new jobs, learn new routes, and go on new adventures, your lives will change. Take the time to tell them about it, talk about old times, and wish each other luck in the future.

CELEBRATION TIME FOR THE FAMILY 03

Convocation is a day for you to be proud of yourself and for your friends and family to be proud of you and enjoy the day of light with you. They have been with you on your journey and have seen how hard you have worked to achieve what you have. Maybe they did something hard for you to make this happen, so it is also their day. So don't forget to get to the convocation hall, go up to the podium, get your award, and watch as your family and friends are so proud of you.

04 THE FIRST STEP OF THE NEW ADVENTURE

The ceremony of convocation makes you realize that this is your move into the real world. Graduation will be an important turning point in your life, a sign of change, growth, and the start of new things. Take a moment to think about everything you've learned so far and the memories you've made. Be in the moment, and you'll be able to remember the best parts. You might be able to look back on your graduation story one day.
