What were your favorite classes?

Informative speech class where I can speak some content that are valueble to many peoples. Everyone is aware that an informative speech is a type of public speaking intended to inform an audience about a specific subject. Instead of presenting the audience with viewpoints or arguments, this sort of speech is typically concerned on providing facts and data. An instructive speech aims to provide the listener a thorough comprehension of the subject being covered.

How did your major prepare you for your career?

Major Office System gave its employees resources and possibilities for professional development, which helped me prepare for a career. This includes training courses, seminars, conferences, and webinars on how to create a career and find employment. They also provided tools for careers, like advise on how to write a CV and cover letter, suggestions for conducting a job search, and networking ideas.
