

The Green Oasis residence, an urban farming residential type, is developed from the idea of helping economy problem among 840 Kuching citizens, centered in the middle of industrial estate of Pending. The concept indoor farming can increase the residents income and promotes sustainability. The connection between human and nature use the strategy that promotes the experiences to the public for the farming activities. This idea allows the community to bond through wholesale trade and concurrently creates a good bond between the communities from different areas.

