On 17 July 2025, as part of the Scholarly Engagement for Regional Understanding and Multicultural Perspectives in Pharmacy (SERUMPUN 2025) programme, the Faculty of Pharmacy, Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM), welcomed 27 exchange students from Airlangga University, Indonesia, for a clinical exposure tour of the Pharmacy Department at Hospital Al-Sultan Abdullah (HASA), Puncak Alam. This initiative was designed to foster regional collaboration and promote experiential learning in pharmacy education.

The students were warmly greeted by Mr. Nur Azmi Badarulzaman, Chief Pharmacist, and Mr. Hafidz, Liaison Officer from HASA's Corporate Department. Following a group photo session at the hospital lobby, they attended an introductory briefing on HASA and its Pharmacy Department.

Visiting the outpatient department

The tour offered a concise yet comprehensive overview of university hospital pharmacy services under Malaysia's Ministry of Education. At the Logistics Pharmacy Unit, the students learnt about inventory management systems, including cold chain logistics for temperature-sensitive medications. In the Inpatient Pharmacy Department (IPD), they observed workflows from prescription screening to ward supply, as well as pharmacist interventions. The cleanroom for cytotoxic drug preparation showcased safety and handling protocols, while the Outpatient Pharmacy highlighted automated conveyor systems that enhance dispensing efficiency and ensure patient safety.

The visit concluded in the hospital auditorium with a presentation on HASA's pharmaceutical services by Mr. Hafidz and Mr. Nur Azmi Badarulzaman, followed by a lively Q&A session. This first-hand exposure to Malaysia's clinical pharmacy environment underscored the importance of adaptability, cultural exchange, and professional collaboration in preparing future pharmacists for global healthcare challenges.
