Upholding Academic Rigor: The IPSiS Effective Thesis Examiner Initiative

The IPSiS Effective Thesis Examiner initiative is a strategic program aimed at strengthening the quality and consistency of thesis examination across all levels of postgraduate study. This initiative empowers academic staff with the necessary competencies, sound judgment, and ethical awareness to carry out thesis evaluations with precision, fairness, and academic integrity.

At the heart of the program is a commitment to academic excellence and objectivity. Examiners are guided through a comprehensive understanding of their role in assessing the scholarly merit of theses, ensuring that evaluation is conducted in line with UiTM's postgraduate standards, institutional policies, and global best practices.

The initiative also promotes the importance of constructive and evidence-based feedback, enabling examiners to support academic development while maintaining the rigour expected of postgraduate research. Through interactive learning, examiners are exposed to diverse research paradigms, evolving scholarly expectations, and ethical considerations that shape the landscape of modern thesis examination.

By participating in this program, academic staff will enhance their ability to make informed, consistent, and transparent judgments, ultimately contributing to the credibility and scholarly reputation of the university's postgraduate research ecosystem.

The IPSiS Effective Thesis Examiner initiative represents a significant step towards cultivating a culture of high-quality, accountable, and ethically grounded research assessment, an essential pillar in UiTM's pursuit of research excellence.
