ABSTRACT

Basically this study was initiated after realising that there is a need to know of the existence of laws relating to graveyards, the issues and problems due to the absence of specific legislations on graveyards. With a proposal which was submitted and approved by the lecturer of the subject of Legal Research and Methodology we began the research because it appeared to us that there may be a lack of space for burial grounds. However, further research was conducted and we realized that the most important matter is not the lack of space but the need to have a visible law regarding graveyards in Malaysia.

This study will specifically look at the comparison of specific laws relating to graveyards and the issues that arise and how it may be solved.

Through this study, it was found that in Malaysia there is no clear and precise laws relating to graveyards to act as a guideline to better administer all matters pertaining to it.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost we would like to extend our deepest gratitude to God, Allah S.W.T for giving us the patience and tolerance in carrying out our duties on researching for materials to support our topic that is of the first of its kind and to our supervisor Prof. Madya Rohani Sahak for her critique and valuable contributions by guiding and providing us with a lot of relevant insights through out the duration in completing this study as well as in helping us to achieve the best in our capability to complete this project paper. Without her supervision we could have not done better.

Secondly, we would like to extend our greatest and deepest gratification to the interviewee Madam Noraziah binti Abu Bakar, Mr. Abdul Rahman Galeh and Mr. Akhsan bin Haji Abdul Karim for having the patience to take some time off their busy schedule to answer our questions and entertain our curiosity and also not to forget the public for being encouraging in answering our questions.

We are thankful for having Madam Norha Abu Hanifah approve the research proposal. Finally, our deepest appreciations are directed to our respective families and friends for their moral support and understanding.

Any errors in this paper are entirely our mistake and we apologize for the errors made on our part.
