ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Many people have contributed to the preparation of this project paper. Miss Norliza bt Abdul Hamid, who is the supervisor of this project paper deserves a special mention for her role in this work. We thank her for her admirable and unrewarded dedication in assisting and guiding us. Her professional standards and goals made us strive to do better.

We are also grateful for the support and assistance from Madam Norha Abu Hanifah who taught us at the beginning to come up with the proposal for this project paper.

Further, we would like to thank the Universiti Teknologi Mara of Shah Alam, Selangor Law library and Perpustakaan Raja Tun Uda of Shah Alam, Selangor for allowing us to use their facilities, documents and materials.

Grateful acknowledgement is given to Mrs. Sharifah bt Ahmad, officer of Tribunal Tuntutan Pengguna Malaysia (TTPM), Shah Alam, Selangor, Ms. Zuraidah bt. Abdullah, Officer of National Pharmaceutical Bureau, Cosmetic Unit, Petaling Jaya, Selangor and Ms. Asiah bt Abdul Aziz, officer of Department of Health, Enforcement Unit, Shah Alam, Selangor for rendering full co-operation and assistance in answering the interview questions in completing this project paper.

Merit to the public who helped us to answer the questionnaire that we have prepared in order to gain extra information.

Last but not least, to our families and close friends, for the encouragements, financial and eternal support throughout the completion of this project paper, we thank them.

ABSTRACT

This project paper is about the various dangers posed by beauty products such as baby bath, deodorants, hygiene wash, hair dyes and anti-ageing products. It also covers on rights of consumers if they suffer any damage as consequences of using these beauty products.

For ease of reference, this project paper is divided into five main chapters, dealing with the hazardous ingredients in beauty products, cosmetic regulations in Malaysia, the introduction, laws of other countries and finally, the conclusion and recommendation.

The purpose of this project paper is to review the law regarding the beauty products which focuses on regulatory obligations and basis as a means and shield for the consumers of their rights, in the event of damages.

Along the journey to complete this task, the result is surprising as the fact that in Malaysia, even to this date (2006) there is no specific regulation to govern the cosmetic industry, although this is one of the biggest industries in this country.¹

Finally, it is hoped that those who read would benefit from this project paper.
