ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, Alhamdulillah and thanks to Allah s.w.t because I have successfully completed this report. Without the strength given to me, I would not be able to complete this report. This project paper is prepared to fulfill the partial requirements for the degree of Faculty of Business Management, MARA University of Technology, Kelantan Campus.

I would like to wish a special thanks to our advisor for sir Naseer bin Abd Majid guidance given throughout this report. It would be impossible without the assistance and guidance from him through his comment and suggestion. Other than that, I would like to express my gratefulness and appreciation towards second advisor Miss Nik Suriati binti Nik Hassan for giving some ideas and supports to finish this report. Also not forget to my family that gives moral support to complete this project paper.

Besides that, my special thanks go to all my friends and others for their cooperation, advice and full of support during the study.

Finally, I hope that this project paper can be continued and improved in the future in order to expose the student to provide the better knowledge. I also hope that everyone can gain something with this report.

Thank you.

ABSTRACT

This paper analysed factors that affecting firm profitability in Malaysia. The study used Multiple Linear Regression Model to determined significant relationship between dependent and independent variables, covering data for 10 years' period which are from 2005 until 2014. The researcher used four independent variables that affect the firm profitability which are sale growth, asset growth, fixed asset growth and employment growth. The empirical results have found there is only sale growth and asset growth have significant relationship between firm profitability of our sample firm.
