ABSTRACT

The research explores customer patronage behavior of visitors who frequent the Kedai Rakyat 1 Malaysia (KR1M) with the aim of understanding who the main customers are and why they frequent KR1M. It is postulated that price perception, convenience, service quality, variety of assortment and sales and promotion are variables influencing customer patronage of retail outlets. By using the descriptive method of study based on the survey approach, questionnaires were distributed to 120 respondents. The mall intercept method was utilized as a means of collecting data. Data accumulated was analysed using descriptive analysis together with correlation and regression analyses to answer the stated research objectives. The outcome of the study found that convenience was the most influencing variable on customer patronage. Although all the variables showed positive correlation with customer patronage, convenience was found to be the main reason that customers frequent KR1M. The recommendation outlined in the study suggested that market penetration would be the best alternative to enhance market growth of KR1M as the present customers appeared to be in line with the target market of KR1M. This strategy was also aligned with KR1M's present Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) initiative of serving the needs of the urban poor and to ensure that their welfare would be addressed appropriately.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Firstly, we wish to thank God for giving us the opportunity to embark on our Masters and for completing this long and challenging journey successfully. Our gratitude and thanks go to our supervisor Professor Dr. Rosmimah Mohd Roslin. Thank you for the support, patience, and ideas in assisting us with this project. We also would like to express our gratitude to the Project Manager of Mydin Mohamed Holdings Bhd who is Encik Hussain Karim Ally for providing the knowledge and assistance towards this study.

Special thanks to our colleagues and friends for helping us with this study. Finally, this thesis is dedicated to our father and mother for the vision and determination to educate us by providing us with guidance and assistance. Alhamdulillah.
