1.0 Introduction

We the students of ENT300 have went to seek out help from a company in order to complete the assignment that has been task to us. Case study in this project is a process of researching the development of a company over the time that they have been operating. In this study it shows how a company manage their business to keep it running especially in a tough environment with alot of contenders who can take over anytime. The purpose of the case study that was conducted is to learn and identify the best solution to the problem in the company. They are more than one companies who are competing in the current business. It is not as simple as it seems due to the fact that they are alot of companies with similar intentions. It is important that we gather all relevant information to comprehend the true problems of the company.

In this case study we had decided to conduct a study on a consultancy firm which is called Konsortium Bumi which is located at 101 Kuching stampin. Our group interviewed the head of Admin and got fantastic results in order to start our case study. With the information we got we can identify what are the causes, problems and the best solution for it all.
