ABSTRACT

In social environments influencing happiness are diverse and interwoven, and likely to differ within and among communities, nations and cultures. In an attempt to show how the social environment, as reflected in the quality of neighborhood and community life as well as in the quality of various public institutions, enables people to live better lives. We will also show that strong social environments, by buffering individuals and communities against the well-being consequences of adverse events, are predicted to reduce well-being inequality. Taman Kempas Indah is the first neighborhood in the Kempas areas. It is surrounded by other neighborhoods such as Taman Kempas Utama and Setia Tropika. Hence, Taman Kempas Indah is a neighborhood blessed with shophouses and good surroundings. The residents of Taman Kempas Indah are mostly occupied by permanent residents. A study has never been conducted or research by contributing to the happiness level residents of Taman Kempas Indah during this Covid-19. The study was focused to a few issues and problems related to the factors and level of happiness among the residents, level of happiness residents in Taman Kempas Indah are dropping during the pandemic of Covid-19 and the residents of Taman Kempas Indah are affected especially from the social aspect of life during Covid-19. The purpose of study is coverage of this study to measure, identify and analysis the factors of happiness and level of happiness of the residents at Taman Kempas Indah Johor Bahru.
