Dila Kamaruddin

Waiting For The Light

This photographic work is an exploration of the elements of colour, texture, form interactions, and line interacting with ephemeral qualities of light. I push the limitations of the camera and break the rules of what people expect photographs to be.

By using my most recent agent of abstraction, the motion capture technique, I am no longer just discovering photographic compositions, but I am creating them and it helps me engage more deeply with where I am in space and time towards art and technology.
