ABSTRACT

Nowadays, in Malaysia, consideration regarding animal welfare is widening. Animal welfare is not just the physical and psychological term but more adapted to lifestyle. However, the infrastructure for the community especially to animal lovers to bestow their interest is not a great deal. Competitive environment in pet centre or pet shop is getting more intense. Animal welfare is not just about commercializing the animal but to fight for their rights. Therefore, such infrastructure is needed in order to provide education on animal care. Hence, a new iconic eco-green SPCA Animal Welfare Centre at Centre at Jalan Ampang off Jalan Jelatek, Kuala Lumpur has been proposed. The aim is to introduce the community to a sustainable design animal welfare accordingly to client's requirement. With all the specification and design approaches, this centre will be diverse from other animal centre in Malaysia. It will be a new culture in animal welfarism in Malaysia where animal welfare and pet centre is intertwined. Design concept and implementation will act as profoundest study. All the data and details that been collected from research and observation conducted, was use as a parameter in the design process.
