ABSTRACT

The purpose of the research is to Analysis on Handling Rohingya refugees in Malaysia. The research is using qualitative analysis as the methodology. Malaysia is one of the popular countries that have attracted immigrants to migrate in the country especially for the Rohingya refugees. The Rohingya refugees will come seeking the help to live in the Malaysian to run away from their country because in their country their human rights are not earned, they are even oppressed in their own country. Hence, they acted to leave their country and migrate to Malaysia. The number of Rohingya refugees that migrate into the country have kept on increasing from year to year. The Rohingya refugees choose to migrate to Malaysia because the government has provided some benefits which are in terms of healthcare, jobs and others. There are also some NGO and non-NGO that have helped the refugees settling in the country. Even though there are some actions taken by the government to stop the refugees from coming into the country especially during the pandemic, somehow, they still manage to enter illegally into the country. Their action has made the Malaysian government and also the local citizens feel threatened by the larger number of Rohingya refugees in the country since the government needs to provide allocation for the refugees that are being detained. It has made the financial of the government keep on increasing and also make the local citizens feel unsatisfied with the Rohingya refugees.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Alhamdulillah and praise be to Allah SWT that we were able to complete this research in good health because of His blessings.

First and foremost, we would like to express our gratitude to our supervisor, Sir Mohd Ramlan bin Mohd Arshad, for his invaluable advice, continuous support, and patience while we were conducting research for the subject ADS511. His immense knowledge and plentiful experience have encouraged us in all the time of our academic research.

We would also like to thank our family and friends for their assistance and support, which has helped us to be resilient and strong in completing this research. We would be unable to complete our research without their assistance. We hope that all the individuals that have given their support to us will always be in good health.
