In this article, the new concept of gifted entrepreneurs, which is an important key to the economic development of a country, will be presented. The gifted entrepreneur refers to an individual who successfully carries out new business ventures. He or she always starts with an idea and finishes with real products, services, or processes. As well, a gifted entrepreneur is associated with a high degree of practical intelligence, creative, and innovative abilities, as well as managerial and business talent (Larisa V. Shavinina, 2013).

"refers to an individual who successfully carries out new business ventures"

In the era of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Robotics, entrepreneurship is one of the catalysts related to the economy, enhancing innovation, creativity, and competitiveness for a country.

Hence, the gifted person is primarily responsible for innovations worldwide and innovations are at the heart of today's economy (Larissa 2013; Drucker, 1993). In other words, this is why innovation is closely related to giftedness, and why giftedness is related to the economy.

"......gifted entrepreneurs who successfully identify and exploit opportunities will continue to thrive in our ever-changing economy"

Let's look at the importance of the relationship between entrepreneurship, innovation, ideas, and the economy. By innovation definition. implementation of an idea into practice. Whereas, creativity refers to the generation of novel ideas and originality. Simply put, basically about the innovation is implementation of ideas, and giftedness is closely related to innovation. Thus, there is a consensus today that innovation refers to the implementation of an idea into practice in the form of a new product, process, or service Larisa V. Shavinina (2013). However, innovation has no value until entrepreneur builds a business model around it and turns it into a product or service (Clifton & Bharadwaj, 2014).

This is because entrepreneurs practice ideas through the creation of new ventures, which in turn, create jobs and in successful cases, lead to economic prosperity.

In the case of Malaysia, the 5-year Malaysian Economic Plan has consistently emphasized the importance of science and technology education as a vehicle for economic growth, wealth creation, and innovation (9th Malaysia Plan, 2006). Therefore, entrepreneurship education is a key resource for producing skilled key forces, capable of developing innovation and technology in the field of entrepreneurship as one of the strategies through long-term planning.
