ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

There are many individuals whom I would like to thank for their role in the completion of this research project. To my research advisor, Mdm. Janette Jannah Poheng, thank you for leading me all the way to the accomplishment of this research. This study would have been very difficult without your guidance and support.

I am grateful also for the unending support, financially and emotionally, from my family, especially my parents, Maikul @ Michael Malani and Mabis Binti Majunis. It is hard to express my appreciation for their absolute faithfulness, encouragement and constant love, sacrifices in all forms money, prayer, technical support, and all that. I will not make this into reality if it is not because of them. And for my one and only, Britney Enjing Anak Ralph Rampai, I am so grateful that I had you in the very first place. My journey without your warm love and encouragement will be just like walking by the side of the valley of the death. Thank you for loving me and given me reasons to success in everything I do.

All praise to the Lord God for the wisdom He has given to me until I can finish this research, which I thought was impossible at first, but yet He gave me strength to keep on the right track. May the blessing sit still for the glory and the mightiest name above all.

ABSTRACT

The study's goal is to identify the common factor causing punctuality issues among UiTM Conservatory of Music students. Along with the journey of the study, we further discovered the effects of the issue to the Conservatory of Music student. We predicted that there would be ways to overcome the mentioned issue based on the findings of the investigation. The study was conducted in the Conservatory of Music UiTM, Shah Alam, where the parties involved were undergrad music students from the five departments (Music Education, Music Performance, Music Composition, Music Business, and Diploma in Music). Fifty-four questionnaires have been distributed randomly and analysed.
