ABSTRACT

Zakat on income is an Islamic tax on individual income earned from employment causes or activities. Professional fees, labour pay, salaries, wages, bonuses, grants, donations, dividend income, and other items fall under this category. The subject of zakat of income has long been a subject of debate. There are different viewpoints among Muslim academics across the world. The lack of well-established legislation contributes to the Muslim community's growing scepticism and uncertainty about the practice. So here I am responsible for completing my project assignment, which is to identify the rate of zakat payment, to examine the level of intention from few factor (Knowledge in religious responsibility to give zakat, Determination to pay zakat, Source of knowledge, Environmental influence, feeling of executing) and examine the relationship between income and compliance behaviour in paying zakat among lecturers in UiTM Dungun. In this research, I will explain the distribution of the sample taken based on the population of lecturers in UITM Dungun and followed by analysis from each respondent. Descriptive analysis and correlation analysis have also been conducted to produce promising study findings.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Firstly, I wish to thank Allah SWT for giving me the opportunity to embark on my final year project and for completing this long and challenging journey successfully. My gratitude and thanks go to my supervisor Dr. Che Khadijah Hamid. Thank you for the support, patience, and ideas in assisting me with this project.

I also would like to express my gratitude to all lecturer from UiTM Dungun, Terengganu who so generously took time answer my questionnaire in this research. Not also forgetting my friend who helped a lot in completing this assignment.

Finally, this thesis is also dedicated to my parents who gave birth to me and gave me love and determination to educate me. This part of the victory is dedicated to both of you. Alhamdulillah.
