ABSTRACT

The development of knowledge management (KM) came from various schools of thoughts, among others, the intellectual capital movement, Total Quality Management (TQM, Business Process Reengineering (BPR), knowledge process, learning organisation and complexity theory. Eventually it was developed by researchers to be collectively agreed upon as the strategic management of knowledge assets in organisation. These knowledge assets were recognised as the core component of the current economy. The business community embraced the idea and became part of business strategy value chain. KM became comprehensive, enveloping the main business strategy complete with studies on developing measures to ensure its successful implementation. The development of the subject and its implementation has been gradual in Malaysia. The biggest trigger is the Multimedia Super Corridor (MSC) project that propelled the importance of knowledge as an economic assets even more. This research is a case study research of Organisation X, a premier organisation in Malaysia, with the objectives of, firstly, to understand how Organisation X became a knowledge-based organisation (KBO). Secondly, to find out the strategy and components involved in the implementation of KM programme in Organisation X. It was suggested, based on the findings that KM programme as a whole is also about creating a knowledge ecosystem. A new framework for nurturing KM eco-systems is proposed to enhance the implementation as well as a guide for future research in the subject area.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Alhamdulillah, it has been a long, challenging and fruitful journey to complete this study. Along the way I was brought down to earth by the reality of how little that I knew of HIS gift of knowledge to the human race. My family has always been there for me to prod, encourage and sometimes to scold me to be focussed and to finish what I have started. Especially, when I started to question myself as to why I am putting myself in agony to do this. But, I am not regretting anything. For that I sincerely thank my lovely wife Samsiah Alang and my children, Muhammad Ghazi, Fatimah Az-Zahra, Muhammad Baqir, Fatimah Taherah, and Fatimah Mardhiyah. As the Eagles sing, 'Your Are My Inspiration.'

The journey was sometimes enjoyable, as moments of serendipity excite me to explore more and do more as I know what I am doing is going to contribute to a body of knowledge that would be extremely useful for Malaysia. Along the way, meeting and making new friends that until today I value. Participant 1 is one of them.

I am indebted to my supervisors Professor Adnan Jamaluddin and Dr Dang Merduwati Hashim for the patience and willingness to stick with me and my crazy whims and fancies. Importantly, their beliefs that I have something great to share and I can easily deliver this, keeps me going.

My immense appreciation to all the sweet dedicated librarians that have allowed me their knowledge spaces as my second home; the management of KLIA2, Starbucks, Secret Recipes, McDonalds and few 'mamak' places for allowing me just to spend few Ringgit Malaysia on coffee and to use your spaces and Internet access as I wish; and KTMB Bhd for I did most of my writing and thinking while on your 'Komuter' train during my daily commutes to the office and home.

Lastly, my utmost gratitude also goes to all KM practitioners in Malaysia for your continuous commitment to see knowledge management develop and striving in Malaysia. This study is a gift to all of us as well as a stepping stone to guide us to contribute even more. Allah hu Akbar, Alhamdulillah, Subhanallah
