“Health System Transformation to Support Global Health Security”

From 1st March to 24th May of 2023, Universitas Dutabangsa, Indonesia organized an international program called the 3rd ICOHEX 2023 International Competition on Health And Student Exchange with the theme “Health System Transformation to Support Global Health Security”.

The program includes activities such as webinars centered on stunting among children, talent competitions for song cover, dance, and oral speech, and other competitions like designing poster, writing essays, creating creative and learning videos . All of the activities were conducted online. UiTM participated in the event as a co-host and Dr Fazleen Hatta from Department of Pharmacology and Pharmaceutical Chemistry delivered a talk entitled “Strengthening health resilience through drug and vaccine research”.

17 students (mainly Rx20 and Rx21) from the Faculty of Pharmacy of UiTM, Puncak Alam participated in this program of which 12 took part in the poster competition, 2 for singing competition, 1 each for essay writing , video making and speech competition. One of the students managed to secure 3rd place for Poster Designing and the rest of the students received certificates of achievement. As an international program, it affords students the opportunity to develop language skills, experience new cultures, and broaden their worldview. It is anticipated that more students will join such program in the future.
