Abstract

"Family Planning @ Planning the Family," was developed to assist educators, nursing students, and the public regarding family planning methods used in health facilities under the Ministry of Health Malaysia. This material is presented through platforms such as padlets and eBooks where the audience can read the related information through PowerPoint presentations with simple and compact notes and infographics to facilitate the reader's understanding. In addition, some associated videos will also be included in this product where the audience will be given a link to view the videos. This product was built by an experienced lecturer in the field of midwifery and community care who has almost 20 years of experience working with the Ministry of Health Malaysia and the content of this product is in accordance with the Ministry of Health curriculum standards. How to utilize this product: Learners can get basic product information such as product content on the YouTube channel. If one is interested in getting more detailed information, the audience needs to scan the QR code given on the YouTube channel and it will be linked to the eBook or padlet that has been prepared. Access to the materials would be restricted and only available to those who are registered to the program. Educators and nursing students are advised to browse through the padlet because there are lecture notes, videos, quizzes, and research findings related to family planning methods. Educators and nursing students can leave comments in the comment section placed on the padlet. The public will be given a link to get an eBook with brief information, related pictures, and videos to facilitate the reader's understanding. If there are any doubts, they can join the Facebook page and the team members will readily answer all the questions.
